TIM MACKLEY (PRE-REGISTERED MEMBER)

Tim Mackley Garden Design
Private garden, London

The garden of this Victorian house was in a Conservation Area but needed to reflect the contemporary interior, extending from the house with clean, lines. The design involved a strong rectilinear ground pattern with terracing to emphasise the level changes. A generously proportioned patio adjoined the house, from which steps provided two routes into the garden – one by a path, and the other via stepping stones ‘floating’ over the pool. The large formal pool formed the centrepiece, mirroring in scale the glass fascia of the house.
